Hi again, here is a poem that the pastor read at the memorial service on June 12 for a friend's 33-year-old daughter. The way the (woman) pastor read it was especially beautiful. I googled and found it after the service. To me it felt comforting.

all good wishes,
 Tana

Parable of Immortality (A ship leaves . . .)
 by Henry Van Dyke - 1852-1933

I am standing by the seashore.
 A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze
 and starts for the blue ocean.
 She is an object of beauty and strength,
 and I stand and watch
 until at last she hangs like a peck of white cloud just where the sun and sky come down to mingle with each other.

Then someone at my side says, "There she goes!"
 Gone where? Gone from my sight - that is all.

She is just as large in mast and hull and spar
 as she was when she left my side
 and just as able to bear her load of living freight
 to the places of destination.
 Her diminished size is in me, not in her.

And just at the moment when someone at my side says,
 "There she goes! "
 there are other eyes watching her coming,
 and other voices ready to take up the glad shout :
 'Here she comes!'
